Reasons for Allowance

In re Application of: Wan et al.

Modelling Objects Represented by Sets of Attributed Graphs, which teaches a model function – described graph (FDG), which is a type of compact representation of a set of attributed graphs that borrow from random graphs the capability of probabilistic modelling of structural and attribute information, for use in modelling and matching 3D-objects described by multiple views.

3.2 The improvement of the present invention comprises, in various embodiments, a method of object view visualization for decomposing a product model into (manufacturing) specific regions, wherein first and second view edges and faces of an object model that are opposite from each other, are identified and assigned to appropriate regions. This patentable distinction is included in each of the independent claims, nos. 1, 8 and 15.

3.3 The art of record, either individually or in combination, fails to teach, suggest, or render obvious the useful, concrete and tangible method of object view visualization for decomposing a product model into manufacturing specific regions, having the corresponding structure which is disclosed in the specification and equivalents thereof at least at page 6, line 12 through page 14, line 13, and Figures 1-3. In view of the foregoing, the claims of the present application are found to be patentable over the prior art.
